

Prof. Shulin Gu

Professor

Institute of Policy and Management, Chinese Academy of Sciences, and Research Center of Technological Innovation, Tsinghua University, China

Biography

Shulin Gu has university degree in science. She worked as natural scientist and industrial engineer in the 1960s and 1970s. In the 1980s she was Research Professor of Institute of Policy and Management, Chinese Academy of Sciences, and from 1992 to 2000 served as Senior Research Fellow for UNU/INTECH (United Nations University, Institute for New Technologies, Maastricht, The Netherlands). Since 2001 upon the completion of the duty for UNU, Shulin Gu teaches at Tsinghua University, and is actively involved in international communities, especially Globelics (The Global Network for the Economics of Learning, Innovation, and Competence Building Systems, refer to (www.globelics.org) activities

Preferred Topics and Keywords

- Innovation and development
- Innovation systems and innovation policy
- S&T system reform in China
- S&T extension services and development in agriculture.