

How Can the Global Science Enterprise Effectively Respond to Sustainable Development Goals?

Friday 10:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. February 17, 2017
Room 208, Hynes Convention Center, Boston, U.S.A.

Response to the United Nations' 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) requires science, technology, and innovation (STI) experience and knowledge. In this workshop, global players in STI -- including individuals from funding agencies, public and private sectors, and international entities in advanced and emerging countries -- share recent achievements and potential solutions for SDGs, and seek opportunities for partnership beyond boundaries such as disciplines, organizations, and countries to work collaboratively on addressing SDGs. This workshop is intended to trigger the development of a multilateral STI network looking toward the future of SDG solutions.

Welcome remark

-  Dr. Michinari Hamaguchi,
President, Japan Science and Technology Agency (JST), Japan

Reports from funding agencies

-  Mr. Takao Kuramochi,
Senior Deputy Director-General, Center for Research and Development Strategy (CRDS), JST, Japan
-  Mr. Daan du Toit,
Deputy Director-General, Department of Science and Technology, South Africa
-  Dr. Max Voegler
Director, North America Office, German Research Foundation (DFG), Germany

Comments from stakeholders

-  Prof. Teruo Kishi,
Science and Technology Advisor to the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Japan
-  Prof. Hiroaki Aihara,
Executive Director and Vice President, The University of Tokyo, Japan
-  Dr. Haruo Takeda,
Corporate officer/ Corporate Chief Engineer, Research & Development Group, Hitachi Ltd., Japan
-  Mr. Naoto Kanehira,
Strategy and operations officer at Budget, Performance Review and Strategic Planning Vice Presidency, World Bank, UN

Summary and Closing remark

-  Dr. E. William Colglazier, Senior Scholar, Visiting Scientist, Center for Science Diplomacy, AAAS, U.S.A./ Co-chair of 10-Member Group, IATT, UN

Moderated by

-  Mr. Satoru Ohtake, Adjunct Fellow, CRDS, JST/ Executive Research Fellow, Economic and Social Research Institute, Cabinet Office, Japan